

NEW JOB POSTING

Genomics course instructors

Johns Hopkins Center for Talented Youth (CTY) summer program

The Genomics course was developed for CTY by Dr. Andrew Feinberg. CTY has a full curriculum in place and is currently looking for graduate, post-doc or professionals to serve as lead or co-instructors for this course.

The position is full time Monday – Friday from July 19- August 7, 2009. Instructional times are 8am-noon, 1-3 with some evening study sessions 7-9pm. The instructor will work with a teaching assistant, and possibly a co-instructor as well.

The salary is approximately $2,000 for the three weeks (potentially more depending upon the level of experience of the candidate), plus room and board.

The Genomics course is research and laboratory based. Therefore, CTY is looking for candidates who are comfortable working in the lab and are enthusiastic about working with high school students.
